The Sixteen Personality Factor Questionnaire (16PF) is a comprehensive measure of normal range personality found to be effective in a variety of settings where an in-depth assessment of the whole person is needed. The 16PF traits, presented in Table 7.1, are the result of years of factor-analytic research focused on discovering the basic structural elements of personality (Cattell, R.B., 1957, 1973). Thu, 19 Nov 2020 productively in clinical settings due to its ability to give a deep, integrated picture of the whole person, including both personal strengths and weaknesses. The 16PF questionnaire can be used to
